

PERSON-CENTERED

The person is priority – the individual desires, goals, insight, and values should be respected and at the center of planning

The power to choose – decisions should be decided WITH the individual and not FOR Community inclusion – individuals should have full access to the community while maintaining dignity

Services and supports – a multidisciplinary holistic approach to address needs of the individual including natural supports as desired

Inform – maintain open communication/adjust your approach to ensure clear understanding of options and decisions

Remember that the effects of a brain injury are different for each person
